

Can a Social Security Lawyer Help My Claim Be Approved?

Q: Is my application for disability insurance more likely to be approved if I have a social security lawyer?

A: Hiring a social security lawyer cannot guarantee that your claim for social security disability will be approved. A social security lawyer, however, can assure that your claim will be correctly filed. A fair number of applications for disability benefits are denied during the initial review process and when reconsidered. If your claim is denied, you will want to appeal and have your case heard before an administrative judge. To undergo the hearing process, it is recommended that you hire a social security lawyer. An experienced lawyer knows the appeals process well and brings expertise that will be invaluable during an appeal. If you are awarded benefits after the hearing process, your social security lawyer will walk you through applying for retroactive benefit payments and assure the correct onset date is established. You can certainly choose to represent your claim yourself. Most people, however, seek an attorney to help them through the process to assure that everything is completed fairly and correctly.

Q: If you were absent from the scheduled hearing for a disability appeal, will you be denied benefits?

A: Being absent from a scheduled hearing is not recommended. If you were unable to attend the hearing for a good reason, it is likely that another hearing date can be scheduled. Emergency and unexpected circumstances are the only reasons that will be accepted. Some common emergencies include illness, family circumstances, medical circumstances and transportation issues. Some people are not even aware that a hearing had been scheduled. It is important that your claims representative at Social Security has all your current contact information, so that mailed notifications will be sent to your correct address. A social security lawyer would have assured that you knew about your scheduled hearing. A notice of hearing date is sent to your lawyer and you. If you knew about your scheduled hearing and missed it on purpose, your claim is in jeopardy of being dismissed. If your claim is let go, you will have to start the application process from step one. Consider seeking the counsel of a social security lawyer to assist you in securing a new date for your hearing and the process of the hearing itself.

Q: Are SSDI and SSI the same thing?

A: Social Security Disability Insurance and Supplemental Security Income are two different programs. Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) is an earned benefit. Supplemental Security Income is awarded to individuals who have limited income and financial resources. SSI is not based on work history. Articles Social security lawyer ... Social security attorney orlando ... Social security benefits ... Tampa social security lawyers ...

About the Author

More sites about social security disability, click on disability.awardspace.com/?Social-security-primer&action=496.

Source: <http://truthgo.com>